Conferences Attended:

The 35th ECNP Congress, Vienna, 15-18 October 2022.

Fortunately, I was one of 100 participants invited by the European College of Neuropsychopharmacology to a unique opportunity to attend a workshop in Nice to present my recent research. I submitted afterwards the abstract to the 35th ECNP Congress in Vienna (October 2022) to attend scientific sessions and symposia because of its relevance to my PhD thesis topic with the presence of clinical experts and research leaders. I had the opportunity to present my findings (poster presentation and a poster jam presentation (3 minutes)). Attending this congress allowed me to network with experts and ECR, which will overall help me to build international collaborations that will contribute to my next review and my studies. The 35th ECNP Congress allowed me to discover the latest in industry developments at the Industry Sessions and exhibitions. Since I am currently drafting these results for manuscript submission, the constructive criticism and feedback that I obtained by attending to this congress are essential for my project and PhD thesis, and to also increase the visibility of my work to international experts in attendance.
