Dirty Laundry is a feminist devising troupe born from the MA in Theatre and Performative Practices cohort in 2020.

Dancing between joy and rage, the collaborative interdisciplinary work of 'Dirty Laundry' uses bold imagery and evocative themes to puncture and reimagine the world around them.

Department of Theatre – University College Cork

Theatre at UCC takes students on an exciting adventure that explores theatre and the wide spectrum of performance.

Students make work: indeed, they usually devise, perform and evaluate their own material, rather than putting on existing plays. Students learn to understand how theatre can engage with and respond to with cultural change. Students can also learn about the business of theatre, production, and the wider performance world, through study and internships.
