

Summer 2011 Research Opportunities for Undergraduate Students in the Biological Sciences

Microbe-Host Interactions Science Foundation of Ireland UREKA Site

A UREKA Site hosted by the Alimentary Pharmabiotic Centre, the Department of Microbiology and the BioSciences Institute, is offering 12 research positions for a period of 12 weeks during June 14th to September 2nd 2011 in University College Cork, Ireland.

Positions are open to undergraduate students from Ireland and abroad. Undergraduate students currently in the final year of their degree are not eligible to apply. A stipend of €300 per week will be offered, and a contribution towards travel expenses will be given for international students. Student accommodation in Cork can be arranged.

The research theme of the UREKA Site is 'Microbe-Host Interactions' and includes topics on interactions between bacterial, fungal cells and viruses with host cells. This UREKA Site will provide a range of other educational events (workshops, industrial site visits) intended to stimulate interest in science careers.

Applicants should view information on the specific research projects and download the application form at <http://ureka.ucc.ie>

Application Deadline: 5pm Tuesday 1st March 2011

Further information: Dr Sally Cudmore, Alimentary Pharmabiotic Centre, University College Cork, Ireland. Tel: 353 21 4901320

Email: s.cudmore@ucc.ie

