

Enzymes are they really needed?

A pH sensor and a temperature sensor are essential when investigating enzyme activity in different environments.

