

Karen Neville
Cork University Business School

The Opportunities and Limitations of Teaching a Hack Attack Game through MS Teams

Teaching completely online created significant challenges and some opportunities for lecturers. Developing Information Systems (IS) professionals specialising in Security is always difficult, as it is for any discipline. This presentation will present the steps taken to adapt to a new teaching space, address problems in using a hacking game and the opportunities it presented for students and the lecturer.

Going all online - teaching practice, learning design and assessment
Friday, 19.3.2021 · 11:00 online (via Zoom)