Conference Attended:

The 17th European Symposium on Suicide and Suicidal Behaviour

This conference was beneficial for my current work and future prospects. At this conference I was lucky enough to present 2 posters and 1 oral presentation, all of which received positive and constructive feedback from a multidisciplinary audience. I also co-organised an early career event at the conference and managed to schedule several meetings with overseas advisors and experts in the area of my PhD. Furthermore, I attended many excellent plenary and workshop sessions which expanded my knowledge and insight into topics relative to and influencing my area of suicide prevention.
