Conference Attended: Advanced GastroPlus Workshop for Pharmaceutical Development

This training course covered advanced topics in drug absorption, essential to my PhD as it allows me to utilize the recently purchased software, GastroPlus, to model in vivo drug absorption and predict human formulation performance.

Attending this training gave me the chance to network with industry experts in the field of formulation design, with attendees from all over Europe, South Korea and Australia, as well as allowing me to meet separately with project collaborators based in region.

This software will be used in undergraduate teaching, and having an advanced understanding will allow me to carry out these teaching activities.
