Conference attended: European Society of Clinical Pharmacy annual European Symposium in Lisbon, Portugal, 28/30 October 2015

Attendance at this symposium benefited my development as it offered me an opportunity to present my work to an international audience. The symposium focused on developing clinical pharmacy, education and research within the field.

The symposium also offered me the opportunity to attend workshops. At this event, I attended; “Successful Scientific Writing: getting conference abstracts accepted and “Successful Scientific Writing: original research papers”. Both of these workshops were run by Froppe van Mill, editor of the International Journal of Clinical Pharmacy.

These workshops provided valuable insights into the selection process which will be of future benefit to my academic development.
