Conference Attended: 2016 AIChE Annual Conference in San Francisco 12th - 18th November 2016

I would like to thank the College of Medicine & Health for facilitating my attendance at the AIChE conference this year in San Francisco. I had the opportunity to present two talks on my research and received valuable feedback from international experts in my field.

The AIChE sessions on innovation and progress in the areas of continuous manufacturing and materials science gave me the opportunity to see the direction many of the world's leading pharmaceutical companies and regulators are moving towards to improve the manufacturing process of medicinal products. This will help develop my future research work.
