Conference Attended:

20th International AEK Cancer Congress. Heidelberg, Germany. 27th February – 1st March 2019.

The AEK cancer congress is one of the biggest assemblies of interdisciplinary cancer researchers in Europe at which major scientific results are presented. This conference was essential preparation for my viva to give an accurate view of where my research stands in context with emerging research in the field and to allow me to present my data coherently and concisely to a range of experts in the field. The opportunity to network with similarly minded professional was also an incredible opportunity which will enhance my current project and assist in my postdoctoral career.
