Conference Attended:

3rd Congress of joint European Neonatal Societies,
Maastricht, (JENS 2019).

This congress was the biggest neonatal conference in Europe with expert speakers from across the globe. The topics under discussion were particularly relative to me as all talks, discussions and workshop focused on neonatology.

I was also lucky enough to have my study (SLEEPI) chosen for an oral presentation. Whilst I obtained invaluable experience in speaking to a large international congress, the SLEEPI study also generated much interest from experts in the international arena who look forward to publication and presentation of my findings. This was all very motivating for me as a final PhD student.
