Conference Attended:

Proteins (GRC) Holderness, NH, July 2019

Dedicated conferences in protein design are rare. I am very delighted being able to attend such a large gathering of scientists. This conference helped me to make new connections in my field and also provided me an opportunity to discuss new ideas. Having a mix of people at different levels in their professional career has given me a better outlook on my path ahead. I have presented my work in a poster presentation event and received valuable feedback and critical suggestions on it. Meeting fellow PhD students helped me gain insights into different labs and make new connections. Overall attending this conference was a valuable step in my professional career.
