

“It is thought almost a virtue in a modern writer to empty us the slops of his mind just as they come.”

John Maynard Keynes

Social, Political and Literary Writings,
Collected Writings, 1936: 329

DECEMBER

