Workshop and STSM information

Dear All,

Application for the UV-B Research Methodology Workshop (February 9, 2011), which will follow the Annual Meeting is still open.

For practical reasons (literally, as there will be practical exercises), the number of participants is limited to 25, and ESRs are accepted on first come – first served basis. There are only a few places left, so please register soon.

Workshop attendance is free of charge if you participate in the Annual Meeting, but you need to register to the Workshop, in addition to registering to the Annual Meeting:

- go to the Registration page of the Annual Meeting
- sign in with your e-mail address and password
- choose “Registration, hotel & program orders”
- choose “Optional programs”

Please do not forget about the opportunity of visiting COST laboratories in member states other than your home laboratory on a Short Term Science Missions (STSM). In addition to information in the previous newsletter (giving details of the application procedure), I'd like to let you know that the grant from COST can be supplemented by your host, so it can be longer than the five days which is actually supported by COST. Nevertheless, the STSM should be completed and a report should arrive to COST before mid-March 2011.

Applications will be assessed by the MC periodically, first early January 2011, so send yours soon.

Finally, I'd like to wish you happy holidays and a prosperous New Year.

best wishes,

Éva Hideg
